Social skills and other hobbies/competences

Cesare provides outstanding interpersonal and communication skills. Over years he built a global network of services with people and clients living in every country of the world: this has been achieved through a thorough understating of the different cultures and environments in which he was acting. He is adaptable, as much he is resilient to stress and able to manage complex projects finding creative solutions. Former professional waterpolo player, he always strives for excellence, and he will never quit, no matter the difficulties he has to face. Differently from most of the law firms on the market, he built his offices in a business incubator where his team, through inclusion, a good life balance, and different inputs, developed all around competences and learned to work as a real team, with the same culture of excellency.

MOOC/short courses:

- Economics of Food (University of Florida, on Coursera)
- Food Marketing (Bocconi University, Milan, on Coursera)
- Management course about delegation processes, change management, performance indicators, hiring new employees (LinkedIn, Coursera)

He loves reading books about history, business, marketing and neural sciences. He like to practice horse show jumping, aquatic sports, ski and outdoor activities (e.g. hiking).
