

Marco Barbero PT, PhD received his Physical Therapy degree in 1999 from the University of Milan, Italy. He obtained a master's degree in musculoskeletal rehabilitation at University of Genoa in 2005, and in 2016 earned his PhD at the at Queen Margaret University in Edinburgh. Since 2012 He is Professor in Physiotherapy and Head of the Rehabilitation Research Laboratory (2rLab) at the University of Applied Sciences of Southern Switzerland. His research involves the integration of neurophysiological and clinical research to improve the treatment of musculoskeletal pain. He focused much of his research on the study of myofascial trigger points. He has published several papers in peer-reviewed journals including Physical Therapy, Journal of Orthopaedic & Sports Physical Therapy, Manual Therapy, European Journal of Pain and Clinical Journal Pain. In 2012, He won the JOSPT Excellence in Research Award for the paper titled "Efficacy of Trunk Balance Exercises for Individuals with Chronic Low Back Pain: A Randomized Clinical Trial". Prof. Barbero is co-author of "Atlas of Muscle Innervation Zones. Understanding Surface Electromyography and Its Applications" He is Editor-in-Chief of the Archives of Physiotherapy, an open access peer-reviewed journal edited by BioMed Central. He is a guest lecturer at several courses in musculoskeletal rehabilitation and evidence based physiotherapy at different universities in Italy and Switzerland.