

I am actually contracted as PM for an Italian company, leader in the live music. Among the others : Rolling Stones, Elton John, Paul Mc Cartney, David Gilmor at Pompei, The Wall
In this role, I deliver strategic operational leadership across all aspects of production. II have worked to optimize productivity, promote growth, spark innovation, and incite change from within.

If you are searching for a leader who is excited to build something and share it with the company and the team then I am up for a new challenge

What I have done

- Drive continuous development to production, quality, cost, and delivery initiatives while building and maintaining relationships with hourly associates, managers, carrier partners, vendors, and various departments
- Oversee the day-to-day production operations, ensuring on-time and accurate delivery of orders
- Effectively engage, coach, motivate and lead the Production team for career progression and development
- Monitor communication between multiple production lines to eliminate downtime
- Establish procedures, metrics and processes to drive productivity and optimization
- Analyze and identify areas of improvement in cost savings, production, and lead times
- Develop and administer operational procedures for outgoing shipments, handling and disposition of products, and keeping the highest standards of quality
- Create, learn, and assist on strategic planning and forecasting to improve existing production issues
- Create a positive team dynamic that encourages all employees to provide feedback and drive change within the facility, adapt to the ever-changing business, and stay focused on the customer experience

What I wil bring

- I am a true entrepreneurial spirit and not afraid to take calculated risks; I am a leader that listen to my team and value their ideas
- Data : I am able to translate numbers into action and pave the way for efficiency
- Strategic: I recognize and resolve situations that are challenging and pave the way for efficiency
- Problem-solver: I have a knack for production planning and critical thinker: I use my skills to identify alternatives and present solutions
- Customer-focused: strong interest in customer experience to strive to deliver a product that is second to none
- Efficient Microsoft Office (Excel, Word) capabilities