Profile

I'm an industrial engineer with a technical and financial background and I am currently the Managing Director of Interporto Bologna SpA. I built my professional career as technical project manager focused on managing international projects in supply chain, IT and freight transport. I got a Master in Business Administration (MBA) degree at Politecnico di Milano in 2017. In 2016, I moved to the AFC department of Interporto Bologna to lead a change management project and set-up new administrative processes. I spent the last years as responsible for all the company's financial and administrative activities, for the relationships with external and supervisory parties and as support the top management in the definition of the company strategy and of all the partnerships and contracts with the strategic stakeholders.
