

Stefano Petti

- Partner at Asterys, Co-Founder AEquacy
- Lecturer , University of Bologna

Background and Education

Stefano is Partner of Asterys, a global organizational development firm with more than 100 facilitators and executive coaches in over 25 countries, and works primarily as thinking partner with leaders who are engaged in transformational initiatives.

He is the co-founder of AEquacy, the revolutionary hierarchy-free organizational design and operating system that accelerates innovation, collaboration and performance and one of the Founding Members, and Chair in 2021, of the global movement Values 20 (V20), which aims to support the G20 leaders, and wider world, to develop policies with values at their core while building new momentum for global action.

Stefano is also a passionate international speaker, lecturer in the Master of International Management programme (University of Bologna, Italy) and is an International Mentor and faculty member in the Startupbootcamp acceleration program.

Prior entering the areas of organisational and executive development he worked in an international setting and in Italy for large multinational companies in the Oil&Gas and Financial sectors.

His academic background includes a university degree in Business Economics (Italy), a specialisation in International Marketing and Finance (Sweden) and a Master of Business Administration – MBA (London).

He co-authored several Harvard Business Review articles and is currently member of the Harvard Business Review Advisory Council.

In 2018 he co-authored the book “AEquacy. The new human-centered organizational design to thrive in a complex world.” with Giovanna D’Alessio.