

Cécile Cavalade has over 20 years of experience in supporting public/private research partnerships and projects in Luxembourg and Belgium. In 2013, Cécile entered the KT world at the University of Liège. Then she spent 5 years at the Université libre of Brussels, in charge of business development and spin-off creation. She has been involved on the executive boards of several innovation-related entities such as start-ups, science parks, or a creative hub, and is still on the board of an investment fund. Since 2023 she has been working as a freelance consultant, among others to support research valorization entities to implement impact metrics.

Cécile is the immediate past president of ASTP (the European Association of Knowledge Transfer Professionals), where she also served as vice president in charge of the Impact and Survey Committee.

Cécile has a management and innovation academic background and recently graduated with a master's degree in Sustainability Management from Paris-Dauphine PSL University. She is French, living in Belgium, and committed to several social impact companies or associations for a more sustainable, multicultural, and peaceful world.
